RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Preparing Heart and Mind™: A mobile and web application for expectant parents and health care providers after fetal heart disease diagnosis. 2017-2018. Principal Investigator. Development, evaluation, and pilot testing of an mHealth prototype. $66,000. University of Minnesota MN-REACH cycle 5.

Do authentic writing environments in nursing (AWE in Nursing) improve nursing student learning outcomes? 2016-2017. Co-Investigator. Tool development and evaluation of authentic written capstone project, one that mirrors future responsibilities, to examine undergraduate senior students' engagement and learning. $5,000. University of Minnesota Center for Writing-Interdisciplinary Studies in Writing.

Preparing Heart and Mind™: A mobile and web application for expectant parents and health care providers after fetal heart disease diagnosis. 2016-2017. Principal Investigator. Concept development and evaluation of an mHealth prototype. $50,000. University of Minnesota MN-REACH cycle 2.

Development and testing of two self-report instruments for expectant parents after major fetal anomaly diagnosis. 2016-2017. Principal Investigator. Cognitive interviews with experiential experts, field-testing instruments are planned. $28,331. University of Minnesota Grant in Aid.

A UNC-Community partnership to enhance outcomes for infants and toddlers with suspected disability who are enrolled in early intervention services. 2014-2016. Collaborator and Project Lead. Analysis of primary data set focusing on qualitative analysis of in-depth interviews with participating mothers. $50,000. NC TraCS Grant, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Parent communication for feeding an infant with a heart defect. 2014-2017. Research Team Member. Contribute to supervision and reflective practice of guided participation for intervention nurses at the Children's Hospital of Wisconsin Pediatric Translational Research Unit. $150,000. American Heart Association.

Communication About Needs and Diagnostic Information of Relevance (CANDIR) for expectant parents after a fetal anomaly diagnosis: Developing a measure for research and clinical use. 2014. Postdoctoral Fellow. Focused data analysis and synthesis, framework development, item generation – initial content validity and dissemination of findings are ongoing. $1,000. Sigma Theta Tau, Alpha Alpha Chapter, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, School of Nursing.

Parenting a child born with a structural anomaly: A follow up study. 2013-2014. Postdoctoral Fellow. Re-contacted study participants, collected survey data, subsequent interview data and photographs/videos that participants chose to share – data analysis and dissemination of findings are ongoing. $3,000. National Institute of Nursing Research, T32 NR007091-18, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Nursing.

Becoming a parent after a prenatal diagnosis. 2011-2013. Student Investigator. Interview data collection and analysis – analysis and dissemination of findings are ongoing. $28,751 (fellowship). National Institute of Nursing Research, F31NR011563-01A1; $6,400. Eckburg Scholarship, University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Nursing.

Parenting after congenital heart defect diagnosis. 2008-2010. Student Investigator. Survey and interview data collected and analyzed, study findings presented and published – additional data analysis possible. $3,134. American Nurses Foundation, Grant #2008-073; $512. University of Wisconsin-Madison Nurse Alumni Organization.
